MONDAY HOLIDAY

The Unemployment Compensation Commission, Virginia State Employment Service, Farmville, will be closed Monday, February 23, in observance of Washington's birthday.

Bowery Tires of Its Bums; Farm Colony Is Suggested

NEW YORK.—The Bowery is getting tired of its bums.

Through its Bowery improvement committee, the East Side chamber of commerce has suggested to Mayor William O'Dwyer that a city commission consider establishing a farm colony "somewhere upstate" to which the Bowery's chronic alcoholics would be sent for a cure.

"This action," said Wilfred B. Kirk, committee chairman, "would materially reduce the disgraceful condition on the Bowery, where the three-times-daily police pick-up of drunks seems like a continuous excursion."

Wearing Action of Water Cuts Topsoil Three Inches

WASHINGTON. — When John Smith and Miles Standish came to these shores, the topsoil averaged about nine inches in depth. Today, due to the ripping and wearing action of water and wind on unprotected land and to the removal of organic matter—the result of land abuse—top-soil averages about six inches in depth for the nation as a whole. "In some places it is all gone," said Secretary of Agriculture Anderson

After Age 35, Gnaw Meat to Save Teeth, Doctor Advises

BOSTON.—If you're over 35 and you want to save your teeth, throw away your knives and forks.

That's the advice of Dr. Charles H. M. Williams of University of Toronto, who believes that tearing in's meats with your teeth is much better than cutting the edibles into dainty bits before chewing them.

Once the average adult has passed the 35-year milestone, he is in as much danger of losing teeth from infections and gum diseases as through decay and accidents, Dr. Williams told the Massachusetts Dental society.

The only thing most people use their front teeth for now, he said, is smiling and biting into apples—and that's a mistake.

Table manners and soft diet work a lot of havoc in Americans' mouths, he added, and a little jaw exercise would do a lot of good.

Uncle Sam Says

If you don't mind blending romance and good business sense, Leap Year Day, February 29, offers the opportunity to take a look at the growth in value of United States Savings Bonds.

For example, here is what happened to the value of Savings Bonds as measured by the Leap Years:

$25 Savings Bond — 1940, $18.75, purchase price; 1944, $20.00 and 1948, $23.09.

$50 Savings Bond — 1940, $37.50, purchase price; 1944, $40.00 and 1948, $46.00.

$100 Savings Bonds — 1940, $75.00, purchase price; 1944, $80.00 and 1948, $92.00.

Buy Savings Bonds through the Payroll Savings Plan where you work, or the Bond-A-Month Plan where you bank if you are self-employed. Watch your nest-egg grow, safely, surely, profitably.

Food for France Campaign Grows After Author Dies

KANSAS CITY, MO. — A World War II veteran's one man campaign for food for France grew though he had died.

James M. Morgan, 25, who served in France, recently had bought a jeep at a war surplus sale to speed collection of donations for his personal plan for Europe. Morgan died in a hospital of injuries suffered in an accident involving his jeep and another car.

Fellow members of Jimmy's French club at University of Kansas City have decided to carry on his program to fill a boxcar with food for the French.

Originally Jimmy sent one 11-pound food package a month to a French student. Then a grocer suggested that he try to collect enough food for a boxcar. Jimmy became enthusiastic about it and bought the jeep to speed up the work.

"We feel as if we were working for him (Jimmy) as much as for French children," said Miss Billie Mahoney, 19-year-old president of the French club.

Trials Show Efficient Feeding of Molasses

Three series of trials using a total of 122 pigs were conducted to determine the maximum amount of cane molasses that can be utilized efficiently by pigs from weaning to a weight of 70 pounds. Rations containing levels of 10, 20, 30 and 40 per cent molasses were compared with check rations containing no molasses in the experiments at University of Hawaii.

The results indicate that, with the rations fed, 20 per cent is the maximum amount that will allow satisfactory gains and efficient feed utilization. Above this level of molasses both the rate of gain and efficiency of feed utilization decreases markedly.

Eloquent Missionary is Given Jeep, Five Bikes as She Sails

BOSTON. —An eloquent 55-year-old missionary was on her way back to Africa with a jeep station wagon and five bicycles to help native pastors spread Christianity through the bush.

Miss Mary W. Hurlbut of Sedalia, Mo., procured the vehicles through the American Board of Foreign Missions, Boston, to speed up missionary service around Elende, West Africa — an area as large as New York state.

A Congregational Christian teacher there since 1924, she recently concluded a year's furlough.

Strong and Durable Wool

Wool has great tensile-resistance to pulling. Wool fibers can be bent backwards and forwards many more times than any other natural textile fiber before breaking. These natural qualities give great strength to the wool fiber. Wool's strength and resilience allow wool to stand hard use, thus making it very durable. Products from wool appear in heavy and light weights, as heavy clothes and felt, or as light, soft materials. In either form it is durable. Clothing from wool gives protection without great weight. Some wool fabrics are as light and soft as down. The use of summer clothing made of wool as well as blankets and baby clothing has increased in recent years.

Cement Raised Pigs Show Excellent Gain

It is possible to raise pigs profitably on concrete according to findings of a Minnesota experiment. Pigs kept continually on concrete after they were 10 weeks old, and during 105 days of fattening, gained exactly as much as pigs fattened on pasture. Feed consumption was about the same, the pastured pigs eating more corn but less mineral and protein. Disease control was easier with concrete raised pigs.

Germans Study American Books

Science, Fiction, Humor Lure Readers to Libraries in United States Zone.

FRANKFURT, GERMANY.—The serious-faced man was bent over the reading room table, three books before him. One was a dictionary, the second a lined notebook in which he painstakingly wrote new words every few seconds, the third a mystery story, which with grim determination, he was trying to read.

At the next table sat a busily-scribbling man wearing a pincenez. He was copying the symptoms of assorted animal diseases and their recommended treatment out of "The Home Veterinarian Handbook." Across the aisle sat a professor thoughtfully going through a stack of the latest American journals of psychology. A housewife next to a window was turning the pages of a picture book on wild animals, and a lad in knee pants leaned over the wall-cases containing the latest American fiction. People wandered in and out, pausing to return borrowed books or sign for new ones.

No Fee Necessary.

The place: The Amerikanische Bibliothek (American library) near the downtown heart of the United States occupation capital in Germany. The frequenters do not pay anything for what they get, and sometimes, as in all libraries, they steal what they should merely borrow. Some cynical Germans say it is just a propaganda stunt and some congressmen back home think it is a waste of money. But to the men responsible for the occupation, this information center and the 18 others in the United States zone like it are as essential to our postwar mission as the constabulary who streak through the country in jeeps and armored cars, or the military government officers who issue orders from ornate Rathaus offices.

Most of the books are written in English by American authors and most of the newspapers and magazines also come from the United States, a fact that naturally makes it a bit difficult to reach the broad mass of the German population. But the number of Germans who know English is large, and has grown steadily during the occupation. Among them may be found the writers, the teachers, the doctors, the political and professional leaders whom it is most important to reach, and a sizable proportion of the students.

Choose Wide Variety.

Recently German translations, mostly from Switzerland and Sweden, of a great variety of books have been brought in, and the highly respected Swiss newspapers are made available. (Because of the worthlessness of the present German currency, it is almost impossible for a German to purchase a foreign book or periodical.)

From the assorted fare here set before them, the Germans choose a rather curious mixture. Science, fiction and humor stand high on the popularity lists. The great current obsession with home repair and construction is reflected in the demand for books on architecture. Architects, construction men and just plain people come in every day to look at the architecture journals and see the new home-building books.

About three-fourths of the calls are for non-fiction, a fact which is understandable since the majority of the readers are professional people trying to catch up on what has been happening in the world in general, and their own world in particular.

De-Icing of Planes Brings Trophy to Engineer Inventor

WASHINGTON. — Lewis A. Rodert, an engineer with the national advisory committee for aeronautics (NACA), received the 1948 Robert J. Collier trophy for his work in developing a heat method of protecting aircraft from ice, National Aeronautic association announced.

The trophy, generally recognized as the outstanding aviation award in this country, is conferred for an achievement, "the value of which has been demonstrated by actual use during the preceding year."

Rodert is chief of flight research at the NACA flight propulsion research laboratory at Cleveland, the government's aeronautical research agency.

Puritan Parrot in Court Over Matter of Legal Injunction

CLEVELAND. — A parrot which eats ice cream, kisses girls and doesn't use profanity was the object of a court injunction.

Common Pleas Judge Frank S. Day enjoined the bird's owners, Mr. and Mrs. Isadore Paul of suburban Cleveland Heights, from selling the parrot to anyone but Mrs. Marguerite Hudson.

The action followed Mrs. Hudson's petition saying she paid $25 down for the parrot, but the Pauls refused to sell when she offered the $35 balance.

Asked for comment, the bird was mum.

How women and girls may get wanted relief from functional periodic pain

Cardui is a liquid medicine which many women say has brought relief from the cramp-like agony and nervous strain of functional periodic distress. Here's what it may help:

1 Take Cardui at once, to stimulate appetite, aid digestion," thus help build resistance for the "time" to come.

2 Started 3 days before your time, it may help relieve pain due to purely functional periodic causes.

Try Cardui. If it helps, you'll be glad you did.
